1. Values and Culture 1

Summary of This Chapter 1
Definitions and Distinctions 1
Mental Programs 1
Describing Mental Programs in Measurable Terms 4
Values 5
Measuring Values 7
Culture 9
National Cultures and Their Stability 11
National Character and National Stereotypes 13
Cultural Relativism 15

Studying Culture 15
Comparing Cultures: Changing the Level of Analysis 15
Avoiding Ethnocentrism 17
The Need for a Multidisciplinary Approach 19
Language and Translation 21
Matching Samples: Functional Equivalence 23
Modal and Marginal Phenomena 24

Dimensions of Culture 24
The Specific and the General 24
Searching for Dimensions of Culture 26
Dimensions Versus Typologies 28
Five Basic Problems of National Societies 28
Other Dimensions of Culture in the Literature: Theory Based 29
Other Dimensions of Culture in the Literature: Empirical 31

Culture Change 34
The Process of Culture Change 34
Culture Change and the IBM Data 34

Notes 36
2. Data Collection, Treatment, and Validation

Summary of This Chapter

The Research Settings
- The IBM Corporation
- The Use of Attitude Surveys in IBM
- Questionnaire Translation and Survey Administration
- The IBM Survey Database
- A Second Research Setting: IMEDE Business School

Data Treatment
- Frequency Distributions and Central Tendency Within Groups
- ANOVA: Country, Occupation, Gender, and Age
- Comparing 40 Countries: Matching Occupations
- Extension to 50 Countries Plus Three Regions
- Selecting Stable Questions
- Eclectic Analysis: Power Distance and Uncertainty Avoidance
- Work Goal Importance Data: Eliminating Acquiescence
- Work Goal Importance: Ecological Factor Analysis
- Putting the Four Dimensions Together
- Value Shifts in IBM Between 1967-69 and 1971-73
- Correlations Between Index Scores
- Country Clusters
- Multilingual Countries: Belgium, Switzerland, and Yugoslavia

Validation
- The Reliability of Country Dimension Scores
- Replicating the IBM Research
- Comparing With Data From Other Sources
- Economic, Geographic, and Demographic Indicators
- Adding a Fifth Dimension
- Studying Organizational Cultures
- Support and Criticisms of the Approach Followed

Notes

3. Power Distance

Summary of This Chapter

Inequality and Power Distance
- On Animal and Human Inequality
- Inequality in Society
- Inequality in Organizations
- The Concept of Power Distance
- Power Distance and Human Inequality

Measuring National Differences in Power Distance in IBM
- Organization of Chapters 3 Through 7
- A Power Distance Index for IBM Countries
- Power Distance Index Scores by Occupation
- Gender Differences in Power Distance
- Country Power Distance Index Scores and Other IBM Survey Questions

Validating PDI Against Data From Other Sources
- Straight Replications of the IBM Survey
- PDI Versus Studies of General Values in Society
- Summary of General Connotations of the Power Distance Index
  Found in Survey Material
Origins and Implications of Country Power Distance Differences

The Power Distance Societal Norm
Power Distance in the Family
Power Distance, Schools, and Educational Systems
Power Distance in Work and Organization
Power Distance, Worker Participation, and "Industrial Democracy"
Power Distance and Political Systems
Power Distance and Religion, Ideology, and Theories of Power
Power Distance and Aviation Safety
Predictors of PDI: Latitude, Population Size, and Wealth
Power Distance and Historical Factors: D'Iribarne's Contribution
Power Distance and Historical Factors: The Roman Empire and Colonialism
The Future of Power Distance Differences

Statistical Analysis of Data Used in This Chapter
Calculating the Power Distance Index by Country
Power Distance Index Scores by Occupation
Straight Replications of the IBM Survey
Results of Other Survey Studies Significantly Correlated With PDI
Indexes at the National Level Significantly Correlated With PDI
PDI Versus Eight Geographic, Economic, and Demographic Indicators
Trends in PDI
Notes

4. Uncertainty Avoidance

Summary of This Chapter
The Concept of Uncertainty Avoidance
Time, Future, Uncertainty, and Anxiety
Uncertainty Avoidance in Organizations
Uncertainty Avoidance Is Not the Same as Risk Avoidance
Measuring National Differences in Uncertainty Avoidance in IBM
An Uncertainty Avoidance Index for IBM Countries
Uncertainty Avoidance Versus Power Distance
Occupation and Gender Differences in the Scores on the Uncertainty Avoidance Items
Country UAI Scores and Other IBM Survey Questions
Validating UAI Against Data From Other Sources
Straight Replications of the IBM Survey
UAI, Anxiety, and Emotions: Studies by Lynn and Others
UAI and Subjective Well-Being
UAI Versus Studies of General Values in Society
Summary of General Connotations of the Uncertainty Avoidance Index Found in Survey Material
Origins and Implications of Country Uncertainty Avoidance Differences
The Uncertainty Avoidance Societal Norm
Uncertainty Avoidance in the Family
Uncertainty Avoidance, Schools, and Educational Systems
UAI and Achievement Motivation: McClelland's Data
Uncertainty Avoidance in the Work Situation
Uncertainty Avoidance and Consumer Behavior
Uncertainty Avoidance and Political Systems
Uncertainty Avoidance and Legislation
Uncertainty Avoidance, Nationalism, and Xenophobia
Uncertainty Avoidance and Religions
5. Individualism and Collectivism

Summary of This Chapter

The Individual and the Collectivity

Individualism in Society

Individualism in Organizations and Organization Theories

Measuring National Differences in Individualism in IBM

An Individualism Index for Countries in the IBM Sample

Societal Versus Individual Individualism and Collectivism, and Whether Ind and Col Are One or Two Dimensions

Individualism Versus Power Distance and Uncertainty Avoidance

Individualism and Occupation, Gender, and Age

Country Individualism Index Scores and Other IBM Survey Questions

Validating IDV Against Data From Other Sources

Distinguishing IDV From PDI and GNP/Capita

Straight Replications of the IBM Survey

IDV Versus Schwartz’s Values Surveys of Teachers and Students

IDV Versus Smith and Dugan’s Analysis of Trompenaars’s Data

IDV Versus Inglehart’s Analysis of the World Values Survey

IDV Scores and Other Studies of General Values

Summary of Value Connotations of the Individualism Index Found in Surveys and Related Material

Origins and Implications of Country Individualism Differences

The Individualism Societal Norm

Individualism and Collectivism in the Family

Individualism and Collectivism Versus Personality and Behavior

Individualism and Collectivism in Language Use and Group Identity

Individualism and Collectivism, Schools, and Educational Systems

Individualism and Collectivism in the Work Situation

Collectivism and the Applicability of Management Methods

Individualism and Consumer Behavior

Health and Disability in Individualist and Collectivist Societies

Individualism or Collectivism, Political Systems, and Legislation

Individualism and Collectivism, Religions, and Ideas

Predictors of IDV: Wealth and Latitude

Individualism and Historical Factors

The Future of Individualism Differences
6. Masculinity and Femininity

Summary of This Chapter

Sexes, Genders, and Gender Roles
  Absolute, Statistical, and Social Sex Differences
  Gender Differences in Work Goals

Measuring National Differences in Masculinity in IBM
  A Masculinity Index for Countries in the IBM Sample
  Masculinity and Occupation, Gender, and Age
  Country MAS Scores and Other IBM Survey Questions
  MAS and Work Centrality in IBM
  Societal Versus Individual Masculinity and Femininity, and Whether Mas and Fem Are One or Two Dimensions
  Masculinity Versus Individualism

Validating MAS Against Data From Other Sources
  The Need to Control for Wealth Differences
  Straight Replications of the IBM Survey
  MAS Scores Versus Other Values Surveys
  Summary of Connotations of the Masculinity Index Found in Surveys and Related Material

Origins and Implications of Country Masculinity Differences
  The Masculinity Societal Norm
  Masculinity and Femininity in the Family
  Masculinity, Schools, and Educational Systems
  Masculinity and Femininity in Gender Roles
  Masculinity and Consumer Behavior
  Masculinity and Femininity in the Workplace
  Masculinity, Femininity, and Political Priorities
  Masculinity, Femininity, and Political Mores
  Masculinity and Sexual Behavior
  Masculinity, Femininity, and Religion
  Masculinity and Geographic, Economic, and Demographic Factors
  Masculinity and (Pre)Historical Factors
  The Future of Masculinity/Femininity Differences

Statistical Analysis of Data Used in This Chapter
  Computing MAS for Old and New Cases
  Country MAS Scores and Other IBM Survey Questions
  Straight Replications of the IBM Survey
  Results of Other Studies Correlated With MAS
  MAS Versus Eight Geographic, Economic, and Demographic Indicators
  Trends in MAS

Notes
7. Long-Versus Short-Term Orientation

Summary of This Chapter
351

East Versus West

10. Using Culture Dimension Scores in Theory and Research

Summary of This Chapter

Applications of the Dimensional Model
  The Fortunes of Continued Research in Six Areas
  Fields of Application
  Replications and Their Pitfalls
  Extensions to New Countries
  Using the Dimensional Model as a Paradigm

Closing Remarks

Notes

Appendixes

Appendix 1
  Questions From the IBM Attitude Survey Questionnaire Referred to in This Book

Appendix 2
  Country Scores on A, B, and C Questions (except A5-A32 and C1-C8)

Appendix 3
  Standardized Country and Occupation Scores for Work Goals
  (questions A5-18 and C1-C8)
Appendix 4
Replicating the IBM-Style Cross-National Survey

Appendix 5
Summary of Country Index Scores (including additions)

Appendix 6
Summary of Significant Correlations of Country Index Scores With Data From Other Sources

Appendix 7
Two Case Studies From the IRIC Organizational Cultures Research Project

Appendix 8
